

TIMES Static Demo Terms of Use

Last updated: 2026-06-29

This document applies only to the static demonstration clone deployed from this local project. It is not the official terms document of the original TIMES service.

1. Demonstration purpose

This website is a static browser-only demonstration of the TIMES user interface. It is intended for layout review, training, and non-clinical exploration only.

2. No medical advice

The demo report, score, risk category, and reference case shown by this clone are simulated. They are not generated by a validated clinical model and must not be used for diagnosis, treatment, prognosis, or any medical decision.

3. No backend submission

The static clone does not include the original R Shiny backend. Files selected in the browser are used only to display their names in the local demo result. The page does not intentionally upload, store, transmit, or process patient data on a server.

4. User responsibility

Do not enter or upload real protected health information, personally sensitive records, or confidential clinical files into this demonstration. Use synthetic or sample data only.

5. Research and production use

Any real predictive, research, clinical, or production use requires the official service, appropriate ethics approval, data protection controls, model validation, and professional medical review.

6. No warranty

This static demo is provided as-is, without warranties of accuracy, availability, fitness for purpose, regulatory compliance, or uninterrupted operation.

7. Contact and provenance

The footer links retain the original laboratory destination for attribution. This local clone is prepared for static deployment testing and does not represent a new official service endpoint.
